Welcome to Broadleaf Commercial

Since its establishment 16 years ago, Broadleaf has built an enviable reputation for quality, innovation and service. As proud UK manufacturers we have combined our intimate knowledge of timber and appreciation of design with Great British craftsmanship and cutting edge technology, to create a unique and unrivalled range of beautiful wood floors that are produced to the highest standards and offer almost limitless aesthetic scope.

Although perhaps best known as a retail brand we have always worked extensively with designers, specifiers and contractors. As a result, over the years, beautiful Broadleaf floors have been successfully installed into as many restaurants, bars, hotels and office developments as private residences – increasingly so as the design demands for these spaces have become ever more demanding.

Between our current Wood Flooring Collections, extensive Archive Library and Bespoke Finishing Service we can meet almost any design brief, but that is not all. As designers and makers we are creative, we can solve practical issues and adapt products to meet a budget; our quality doesn't change from batch to batch, and we don't run out of stock.

The Broadleaf Commercial team understand the needs of professionals, and are at your service to provide whatever information, advice and support you might need from specification right through to installation. We also have a network of inspiring showrooms at which you are always welcome.

This brochure is designed as an introduction to Broadleaf Commercial. We hope it will encourage you to get in touch about your next wood flooring project, find out more and discover the Broadleaf difference for yourself.

Made in the UK

British manufacture is very close to our hearts and we are extremely proud to be one of the only leading European flooring manufacturers based here in the UK.

Located on the edge of the stunning Brecon Beacons, just off the M4, our state of the art factory combines the best of traditional craftsmanship with the latest production and finishing technology. It has capacity to produce over 250,000m2 of beautiful wood flooring annually as well as all manner of trims and other accessories. It also houses our comprehensive joinery workshop, where our time served craftsmen build bespoke doors, staircases and architectural design features, and our industry leading finishing facilities where we apply the unrivalled range of colours and textures that make our products truly unique.

We work to the highest British standards of health and safety, applying rigorous controls, exacting standards and the pride of craftsmen at every stage of the production process. The same knowledge, skill and care is given to every floor we produce be it big or small, standard or bespoke, giving you exceptional quality assurance whether your project is a single room or a multinational roll out.

Choice and Flexibility

Enabling our clients to realise their designs exactly as they had imagined was one of the key reasons we began to finish our flooring back in 2007. That and the fact that we had so many ideas for fabulous looking floors. Our library now holds over 500 unique Broadleaf finishes and counting – our finishing team are constantly researching and developing new finishes to respond to client briefs and the latest design trends. All of these are available on a choice of formats and grades offering, in real terms, over 3,000 different floors and unrivalled design freedom, especially as most of these can also be used on walls or ceilings.

Current Broadleaf Collections are a considered selection from our library designed to respond to classic style and contemporary trends, but we can produce any of our finishes, in any quantity, at any time, so if you are looking for something that you don't see, just ask. The chances are we will already have a solution but if we don't we will adapt or create a finish to meet your brief, at a sensible price and in a sensible lead time.

“Broadleaf floors are not just beautiful, they are also well made, easy to fit and durable. The quality is excellent, every time, at installation and beyond, whichever product we choose.”

Quality

Quality is an easy thing to claim and a hard thing to live up to, but is something that is genuinely central to everything that we do here at Broadleaf and a key motive for manufacturing here in the UK. From the selection of our timber to the way we wrap our pallets every stage of our process is firmly focussed on delivering quality product time and again. We use only the best timber, sourced from sustainably managed forests, that has been patiently air dried, precisely kiln dried and expertly pre-planed to ensure that our floors are as stable as possible and can be graded and machined with optimum precision. We source the ingredients for our finishes from the world's leading suppliers championing those with the least environmental impact and the highest levels of performance. We work to the highest British standards of health and safety and perform stringent quality checks throughout our production process. Every Broadleaf floor passes through many expert hands and each detail from humidity to colour is methodically checked and approved before it leaves our warehouse. This care and attention has earned us a series of awards including most recently Best Wood Flooring Manufacturer – UK and Best Wood Flooring Supplier UK.

Innovation and Design

As manufacturers innovation and design are our lifeblood - from our own flooring profiles to our myriad of finishes our success and growth have been founded on our ability to constantly innovate and design new products, processes and machines.

Over the years we have been proudly responsible for a number of industry leading firsts, including solid flooring for underfloor heating, reproduction reclaimed flooring and an award winning all oak engineered board, not to mention the raft of textures and colours that make our finishes truly unique. Whether creative or practical these were all developed with a single objective – to give our clients unrivalled design freedom. One of the most exciting was our vintage oak parquet which has brought a whole new lease of life to this classic design; with its authentically distressed edges, unique surface patina and beautiful choice of colours it provides a perfect solution for a whole range of interiors where there was previously no real parquet solution. So what next? Well that would be telling, but rest assured we are working on plenty of exciting new developments, all of which are focussed on giving our clients even more design options with the same reassuring quality, reliability and performance.

“Broadleaf are all about solutions. I suppose that’s the difference when you work with the manufacturer. They don’t just know their products, they can change them, or make new ones so they can always meet the brief.”

“Great service is one of the key reasons that we come back to Broadleaf again and again. They really feel like part of our team when we work with them on a project, and they always deliver the goods.”

Service

It's all very well having great products but in our experience these only really succeed when they are backed up with great service. Without the right information, effective communication, accurate pricing and reliable delivery even the best of products can fail to meet the brief. We understand this, and we also understand that representative samples delivered on time can make the difference between winning and losing a contract, and that competitive prices are of little value if they arrive after the tender has closed. We appreciate that our clients are not wood flooring experts, and will often need help to specify the right product or understand the potential installation challenges of a design they have in mind. We consider ourselves partners in every project that we work on and take the time to understand both the aesthetic and practical demands of any brief. We ask the right questions, provide honest, friendly, expert advice and if there are conflicts between design objectives, durability, installation or budget constraints we will not just flag these, but look to help you solve them. Delivering great service is an integral part of Broadleaf culture and as much as a part of our offering as our products.

Sustainability

In a world where environmental concerns are ever more prevalent, sustainable construction and the use of sustainable resources are key. Wood is at the heart of everything we do here at Broadleaf, and responsibly managed is an inherently sustainable resource, so little surprise that we only use timber from responsibly managed forests. Most is sourced from PEFC or FSC certified forests, and all is fully EUTR compliant. We hold FSC Chain of Custody certification and can supply the majority of our products FSC certified if required. We also regularly visit the forests that supply our timber, and foster long term relationships with our suppliers that encourage investment in responsible practices.

Sustainability is not just about the way that forestry is managed though – it is a mind set that we look to apply across the board, throughout our sourcing and manufacturing process. To this end we convert the waste from our flooring production into highly efficient, low ash ‘Logettes’ which burn even more efficiently than the waste timber itself and provide sustainable heat for our factory and warehouse. We only use recycled and recyclable plastic where necessary for packaging, and champion finishing products which as well as excellent performance have the least environmental impact.

Plank

Broadleaf offer the widest range of plank options – beautifully machined, traditional Solid boards; award winning, super-stable Strata engineered boards made entirely from Oak; and high quality yet budget conscious Essentials engineered boards. Solid and Strata boards are available in a choice of widths and in carefully defined Broadleaf grades to provide maximum aesthetic scope. All Broadleaf planks are supplied in generous lengths to create inherently luxurious looking floors and most can be used over underfloor heating. Better still, because all of our finishes are made by us on these boards you can mix and match colours to create exciting designs without worrying that they won't be compatible.

Parquet

We love parquet for its unparalleled creative scope and our extensive parquet collections reflect this with perfectly proportioned blocks and chevrons that cover the range of styles. These include Traditional options that are designed to be sanded in situ to a hallmark 'icerink' finish, Classic options with a subtle micro-bevel and Vintage options with authentically distressed edges and soft surface patina in a myriad of shades. Add to this impressive Versailles Panels and eye catching, contemporary End Grain and you really do have something for every project. There are both solid and engineered solutions, all of which are precisely machined and can be matched with complimentary planks for borders or adjacent rooms. Finished parquet in the same construction is fully compatible, so different colours and textures can always be combined to create individual designs.

Trims and accessories

Trims and accessories that complement the floor are essential for a professional finish but are rarely available, and contractors are often left to struggle to find a match on site. As manufacturers and finishing specialists we can provide a comprehensive choice of trims and accessories to go with all of our floors; this includes nosing, stair cladding and handrails. We can offer standard or made to measure options, in any of our colours, which not only create a better aesthetic but also save significant time and expense at installation stage and offer even more design opportunities.

“Always being able to get trims and accessories to match the flooring, even in bespoke sizes and for bespoke finishes, makes all the difference on site both to timing and the final result.”

Finishes

The quality of finish on a floor is key to its performance and lifespan. Many products designed for residential use cannot be used successfully in a commercial setting without additional coats of finish being applied on site. This is particularly common with natural oil finishes. All Broadleaf floors are finished to commercial standards, with high performance clear wear coats to protect their colour from wear and tear. Their professional Hardwax Oil finishes are natural looking but also shock resistant with excellent levels of durability.

We are finishing specialists who design and make our floors, which means that we know and understand their recipes and how to vary them. So, if you need a lighter, darker, more textured, or slightly cheaper version of one of our finishes there is no need to look to other brochures or suppliers, just ask.
